

Kaysi's Blog

Hey Everyone!

I want to thank you so much for visiting my blog! I wanted to start this when I was planning my wedding because I wanted to write down all the ideas and experiences I was having. So here it is! ☐ The wedding portion of my blog will be about my advice, experiences and random wedding information that I think will be helpful. ☐ The food portion of my blog is just because I love to cook, but I am not a foodie by any means. I will post recipes that I have found on Pinterest or various websites and have modified. I try new recipes all the time, but the temperature might be set too high or the cook time isn't right, etc... My posts will be my experiences in changing the recipes. Crafting is my favorite hobby! I will post step-by-step instructions and pictures to go along with my crafts. Quotes of the day just sounds like a fun blog so I'm adding that in as well. These won't be my quotes, but ones I've found online and want to share. ☐

My hope is that my blog adds a little bit of sunshine to your day! If it does, please feel free to share my page with your friends.